The Texas Sheep Dog Association (“TSDA”) is a non-profit organization founded in 1963 in San Saba, Texas with the purpose to advance and create an interest in the breeding and training of working stock dogs across Texas. Through a system of awards and sheep dog trials, TSDA encourages the continual development of better stock dogs and their applied use on modern farms, ranches, and livestock operations. Every year over 120 dogs and their handlers gather for the State Finals to compete for individual championships in one of five classes ranging in skill level from Novice to Open.
